

ENERGY BEST DEAL

This booklet has been produced by Ofgem and Citizens Advice to give you a guide to the savings you could make by switching energy supplier and/or changing your tariff.

It also highlights the help that is available from both suppliers and Government if you are struggling to pay your energy bills.

It is now easier than ever to shop around and choose the best energy deal. Suppliers are now required:

- to provide clearer information on bills
- to provide you with an annual statement (telling you what tariff you are on, the amount of gas or electricity used for the past 12 months with that supplier, estimated cost in £s for the next 12 months supply – if using the same amount of energy on the same tariff)
- to allow card, key or token meter customers to switch even if they have debts of up to £200
- to not charge you more for one payment type than another, unless the charges can be justified by cost
- to have their doorstep salespeople provide you with written estimates and sales literature that is clear, accurate and easy to understand.

Changing energy supplier is one way you may save money on your gas and electricity bills. If you have never changed you could save, on average, £237<sup>1</sup>. You may also be able to get a better energy tariff<sup>2</sup> from your current supplier so it is worth contacting them to discuss if you are on the best tariff they offer. Potential savings could also be gained by the way you pay your bills – speak to your supplier.

<sup>2</sup> There are a number of different tariffs, an example of some are: prepayment; online; single fuel; dual fuel; capped prices; green energy; economy 7; market tracker etc.

Examples of help found through Energy Best Deal

A frontline advice worker who had received training on Energy Best Deal spotted that a 68 year old disabled client (who lives alone in rented accommodation) paid over £390 for his electricity in the period January to March 2010. The adviser helped the client change tariff (expected to save £229 per year), is helping him to change to direct debit, receive advice on energy efficiency, have his meter checked and be placed on the Priority Services Register<sup>3</sup>.

The Energy Best Deal presentation and booklet gave a consumer confidence and knowledge to do something about her very high energy bills. She asked her current supplier about special tariffs for people on low incomes which resulted her being moved to a different tariff - reducing her current energy bills. She has also passed the Energy Best Deal booklet on to her friends and family to see if they can save money.

How to get the best deal

Before you decide to change supplier and/or tariff you should have your annual statement and a copy of your last few bills. If you use a card, token or key meter have an idea of how much you spend a week/month on energy with you to make sure you choose the best deal for you. Information you'll need:

- the name of the tariff you are currently on (if you don't know you can contact your supplier)
- how much you spent on energy in the last year
- how you currently pay for your energy
- your postcode.

There are different ways you can find out about potentially better energy deals:

- talk to your supplier or view their website
- use one of the approved online price comparison services listed on Consumer Focus's website www.consumerfocus.org.uk
- if you cannot access the internet you can call Consumer Direct on 08454 040506 for a pricing factsheet for your area or general advice
- contact other energy suppliers to compare deals (numbers are at the end of this booklet).

Most energy suppliers offer some of their most vulnerable customers cheaper tariffs. These are called social tariffs and offer cheaper energy deals and extra free services to certain customers. You may qualify for a social tariff if you are over 60, on means tested benefits or are on a low income.

Things to consider:

If you talk to a sales representative who knocks on your door or who has a sales stall in a supermarket, it is important to remember that they only work for one energy supplier so they will only be able to show you deals from that particular supplier. It is important to have information from your annual statement or latest bills with you when considering any deal.

Some deals offer you a good price on your energy for a set period. Make sure you understand how long the contract you are signing is for as there may be a charge if you wish to leave the contract early. When your fixed period does end make sure you transfer onto the best deal for you.

Some deals are 'online deals' – this means that you manage your account online which may not be suitable for you if you do not have regular access to the internet.

If you have an outstanding debt to your energy supplier and you try and switch to a different supplier you may find yourself 'debt blocked'. This means that your current gas or electricity supplier has the right to prevent you from leaving until you have paid off your debt to them. You can't be debt blocked if it is your supplier's fault you are in debt, for example due to incorrect meter readings or billing problems. If your debt is less than £200 and you use a card, token or key meter you can transfer your debt to your new supplier.

If you have a debt with your gas or electricity supplier and are struggling to make payments or cannot agree a payment plan with them – contact your local Citizens Advice Bureau for advice or visit www.adviceguide.org.uk

If you are of pensionable age, disabled or chronically sick you can qualify for your supplier's Priority Service Register which entitles you to additional services free of charge, such as: bills available in large print and braille as well as talking bills; quarterly meter reading services; moving a prepayment meter to improve access and priority treatment in an emergency (this could include providing alternative heating and cooking facilities in the event of supply disconnection).

Once you've chosen...

If you are staying with your current supplier but changing to a different tariff your supplier will arrange the change. If you have chosen a new supplier and once the contract is signed, give your new supplier a meter reading to ensure that you are billed at the right time and for the correct amount.

If after signing the contract you are unhappy about your decision to change supplier you have seven working days to call the new supplier and cancel the contract.

There will be no interruptions to your electricity and/or gas supply while you are switching, and the process should be completed in 6-8 weeks (during that time your energy will continue to be supplied by your old supplier). You will not be cut off or be without gas or electricity and there is no need to change your meter.

If you experience any problems during the switching process you can either contact your old or new supplier or Consumer Direct for help and advice.

Problems paying your energy bills?

Most energy suppliers offer help to their customers on low incomes who are struggling to pay their bills.

Managing energy bills - depending on your supplier and your circumstances you could receive help from your supplier, some examples include: social tariffs to certain customers who may qualify if they are over 60, on certain benefits or who are on a low income; money off your energy bill; benefit entitlement checks to ensure the customer is receiving all government benefits to which they are entitled and trust funds which offer grants to customers, for example to write off debts or purchase new appliances.

Debt repayment - if you are in debt to your supplier they must offer a payment arrangement that takes into consideration your financial circumstances and your ability to pay. For example you could repay your debt through the Fuel Direct scheme, if you are in receipt of the following benefits: income support; job seekers allowance; pension credits or employment and support allowance. A fixed sum will be removed weekly from your benefits by the Department of Work and Pensions and passed on to your energy supplier.

Where to find help

There is a wide range of help available from your energy supplier - give them a call to find out more. Your supplier may also be able to give you some information about how to make your house more energy efficient, so you do not need to use as much energy - saving you money! Suppliers also have schemes that deliver loft insulation to low income households or subsidise the cost of cavity wall insulation (for their customers on low-income or who are over 70 years old).

Energy Best Deal is a consumer campaign run by Citizens Advice, in England and Wales, which trains frontline advice workers from consumer agencies to give advice to consumers on saving money on their energy bills. Ofgem has supported the campaign from its launch in 2008, having funded the pilot.

The campaign has received funding support from the Department for Energy and Climate Change and a number of utility companies.

The Ofgem logo consists of the word "ofgem" in a white, lowercase, sans-serif font, centered within a horizontal orange rounded rectangle.
